

Business and Commercial Litigation

The Theodora Oringher Business and Commercial Litigation Practice Group is the centerpiece of Theodora Oringher's practice. We are well known for being the go-to firm for "bet the company" cases, and for handling some of the country's most complex, high profile and high stakes litigation.

In addition, because of Theodora Oringher's vast trial expertise and impressive array of trial victories, clients from throughout the land regularly retain Theodora Oringher to step in and serve as lead trial counsel shortly before trial, on cases previously handled by other firms.

Theodora Oringher is particularly well versed in dealing with the media on high profile matters. Given the magnitude and complexity of the cases we handle, we routinely work with outside crisis communication public relation firms and media consultants. We have vast experience working with mock trial and focus group consultants, jury consultants, and other experts in high stakes matters.

Theodora Oringher attorneys have a distinguished reputation for innovation, creativity, resourcefulness and tenacity, handling matters before both state and federal courts. Amongst our peers in the legal community, we are proud to be regarded as "lawyers' lawyers" - - where we are often given referrals by nationally prominent law firms, and where clients rely on us to handle their most challenging lawsuits.

Although the firm is well known for aggressive strategies, we pride ourselves in our ability to control costs and to match our resources with the demands of a particular engagement.

Theodora Oringher's achievements speak for themselves. For example, when the City of Anaheim sued the Angels baseball team seeking $370 million in damages for changing the team name to the "Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim," the Angels ownership placed their trust in Theodora Oringher. After a lengthy trial in Orange County, we obtained a defense jury verdict for the Angels. Other prominent, household name companies have trusted us to handle their most pressing, sensitive, high profile and important matters.
